FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

Tomatoes 101 Presented July 11th

Free Seed, Sow & Grow program hosted by Boston Natural Areas Network

BOSTON, MA, March 19, 2009 – There are so many questions with regard to growing tomatoes: How deep do you plant seedlings? How can you prevent blossom drop? What helps your tomato plants to produce more fruit?

To find the answers, participate in Tomatoes 101, part of the Boston Natural Areas Network horticultural series Seed, Sow & Grow, on Saturday, July 11 from 9:00 a.m. – 11:00 a.m. This new workshop will take place at ReVision Urban Farm, 38 Fabyan Street in Dorchester with Farm Manager Matt Kochka who will explain everything you need to know to raise great tomatoes. Topics covered include how to prune and train tomatoes, basic pest and disease control, fertilization and irrigation needs.

The Seed, Sow & Grow horticultural series is free and open to the public and presented April through October by BNAN staff, invited guests, and graduates of BNAN's Master Urban Gardener program. For a schedule of Seed, Sow & Grow workshops, call BNAN at 617-542-7696 or visit www.bostonnatural.org.

Boston Natural Areas Network is a non-profit organization dedicated to bringing together local residents, partner organizations, public officials and foundations to preserve, expand and enhance urban open space, including community gardens, greenways and urban wilds.
