Tap into Boston's Sugar Maples on March 5

Explore Allendale Woods and learn how to tap a sugar Maple

BOSTON, MA – February 28, 2011 – New England is known for its sweet sugar maple syrup but did you know you can tap sugar maples in Boston? Boston Natural Areas Network, along with the Boston Parks and Recreation Department will host an introductory sugar maple tapping program on Saturday, March 5, 2011 at 2:00 p.m. in the Allendale Woods Urban Wild in Jamaica Plain. Judy Lieberman from Brookwood Farm will join us and teach you the basics of tapping a Sugar Maple.

We will meet at Our Lady of the Annunciation Church parking lot, 7 VFW Parkway, Roslindale at 2:00 p.m. and walk in through the woodlands to the beautiful stand of sugar maples. Comfortable warm clothing and boots are recommended. Please contact BNAN at 617-542-7696 or info@bostonnatural.org to sign up and for more information.

Boston Natural Areas Network is a non-profit organization dedicated to bringing together local residents, partner organizations, public officials and foundations to preserve, expand, and enhance urban open space, including community gardens, greenways, and urban wilds. For more information about the organization, becoming a member or the calendar of events, visit www.bostonnatural.org or call 617-542-7696.
